TO THE

P U B L I C.

THE prejudice likely to obtain ground against a performance of this nature, and the many arguments that would undoubtedly be used, by those whom interest prompted to prevent the general acceptance of this work, and the positive contradiction to the possibility of such an undertaking from those who never attempted it, for a long time delayed the Author from publishing it; but finding from repeated practice, that the rules on which he depended proved invariably just; and having consulted others, whose experience in the business corroborated his own, he resolved to trust to the public candour, and hazard whatever attacks might result either from ill-nature or ignorance.

Many to whom the idea has been communicated, with a degree of resentment have put the question: What! Sir, do you presume to teach the trade? To those he begs leave to reply, that without such presumption, he submits to their use, a set of Tables, warranted by experience, which will save them much time in calculation; since it is allowed by every one impossible to recollect from memory alone with certainty, what quantity of the different widths of cloth is required for the various garments.

Others have alledged, that one man may cut out of less cloth than another, and that no calculation can make allowance in that case; to such, he humbly recommends practice on brown paper, which, he conceives, may with more propriety be expended for their improvement than superfine cloth; but few will be found willing to argue upon their own defect in knowledge.

The inconvenience to which the tailor is frequently exposed from a mistake in the calculation; the Author flatters himself will be hereby rectified; and while the customer incurs no unnecessary expence in purchasing more than is needful, the taylor will avoid the trouble of piecing in an unbecoming manner.

The utility of this work must be obvious to every person, particularly to woollen-drappers, and men's mercers; as they will be enabled to inform their customers the exact quantity necessary for any garment, by the mode laid down in this work; and as the inconveniences attending the purchase of cloth, &c. for apparel, have been so long experienced, the Author trusts that the following calculations will meet with public approbation, since they exhibit at once an effectual remedy to prevent cloth, &c. being wasted, either through ignorance or design; and instead of offending, will meet the countenance and support of every fair trader; as for those those of opposite principles, he neither courts their favor, nor regards their disapprobation.

These tables will afford that information to every purchaser, which many, whose profession requires that knowledge, labour in vain their whole lives to acquire.

The woollen-draper, man's mercer, &c. will also be informed of the real value of the remnants they have by them, and of the purposes to which they may with most propriety be adapted.

Masters of academies, captains, &c. of the navy and army, wishing to have their or their childrens clothes made to fit with ease, elegance and taste; may have a suit or any garment made at six hours notice, by sending their cloth, &c. and mentioning the part of the book they took the quantity from; or sending their height and width as described in this work, and the fashion or fancy they would have their clothes made, without the trouble of their being measured, (if they are not deformed;) and their cloaths sent to any part of the kingdom.

The author likewise makes lusty men's breeches, and sends them to any part of the kingdom, by gentlemen sending the length of the side-seam, waistband, and width round the knee below the garter of the breeches, on a new plan: These breeches give room to the belly, and set up about the loins, by the assistance of an elastic strap, which prevents them from coming down; without which method the loins are left exposed below the waistcoat, from whence a multiplicity of disorders ensue.

Gentlemen who chuse may have their clothes made in London without ever being measured, by describing as above mentioned; and bills taken on persons in town for their orders, which will be charged in proportion to the size of the garment or garments.

Orders directed to M. COOK, Author of these Calculations, at No. 31, St. MARTIN'S STREET, LEICESTER FIELDS, will be completed with the greatest integrity.

N. B. For Gentlemen to give the Author instructions to make their clothes, after mentioning the height, fashion, &c. must be by measuring themselves round the breast under the arms with a string; and to mention the number of inches they are round; (and if lusty, the belly also;) likewise the length from the middle of the back seam down the back of the sleeve to the hand.

For the waistcoat; the length from the bottom of the cravat or stock, &c. to the length they would chuse to have it buttoned.

For the breeches; the length of the side seam of the waistband, and width round the knee of the breeches, below the garter.

EXPLANATION

TABLES.

THESE Tables are in two parts: The first is Tables of Sizes, consisting of twenty; beginning with a boy of 3 feet high, and advancing two inches each size, up to 6 feet 2 inches, with a proportionable quantity of the widths of the body* to each size.

The second Tables are the nine different widths of cloth, &c. Across the top of the page is the name by which the width is usually called; as half yard, half ell, &c. to each of which are three different widths; as under that of half yard, are mentioned 3-8ths, 3-8ths 1 inch, 3-8ths two inches; at the top of the three columns of quantity of cloth, &c. are placed yds, qrs. nails:—The column of figures on the left hand under the head No. are those which I shall call the Guiding Number, and opposite which, is to be found the quantity sought, throughout the different widths.

* The thickest part of the body is generally round the breast under the arms; lusty persons at the belly.

Tables of the First Part further explained.

Each page contains two Tables; the height of the size and length of the garment are expressed across the top of each Table: The first column on the left, is the width by inches of the person, round the thickest part of the body: The second column, is the number in Tables of widths of cloth, &c. which, for distinction sake, I call the Guiding Number;* and the nine other columns shew the folio's of the pages in Tables, of the different widths mentioned at the top of each column.

E X A M P L E.

To find the quantity of half yard wide, to make a coat for a boy 3 feet 4 inches high, and 26 inches round the thickest of the body.

Having found the Table (which is in page 2 in the first part) adapted to the height and garment; the next to be sought is the width, 26 inches; I look down the column of widths by inches, till I find 26; against which is 30, the guiding number; opposite which number, in the column for half yard wide, is No. 1; then turn to page 1, in the second part of the same work,* and opposite the guiding No. 30, which is in the first column on the left hand, you will find the quantity of three different widths of stuff; if the first width, the necessary quantity will be 2 yards, 1 quarter, 1 nail; if the second width, 2 yards, 3 nails; if the third width, 2 yards, 1 nail.

N. B. Opposite the same guiding number, is shewn the exact quantity through the different widths for that garment. The purchaser must take care not to purchase a width, which quantity will be shorter than the length of the garment; as for instance, opposite the guiding Number, 30, in folio 9, in the width of 2 yards is 2 quarters, and the length of the coat is 2 quarters 3 inches; so that if the coat is the right way of the cloth, &c. it must be pieced across.

Table to reduce the quantity of cloth according to fashion or fancy.

IF you would have your garment shorter than the length allotted to the size; deduct off the guiding number, the quantity expressed below the number of inches you would have it shorter; in the line opposite the size of the garment, in the following Table.

* The second part of the work is separated from the first part by a leaf of blue paper.

For instance: If a coat for a person of the third size, of 3 feet 4 inches, is to be made 2 inches shorter than the allotted length; deduct the number under 2 inches opposite the line 3 feet 4 inches, so that the guiding number becomes 28 instead of 30.

To reduce the quantity, when the coat is not faced with the same cloth; deduct from the guiding number as expressed (opposite the size) in the column of the coats not faced.

For instance: From a coat of the above size, 3 feet 4; opposite the size in the line for coats not

At 2 the original quantity faced faced is 3, which reduces the guiding number from 30 to 27; and if 2 inches shorter, and not faced also, the guiding number will be reduced to 25, which will be found 2 yards, being 5 nails less than the original quantity. 4 2 2 1

E X A M P L E.

To find the quantity of thickset of half ell wide to make a coat and waistcoat for a person of five feet six inches high, and thirty seven inches round the body.

In page 38, in Tables of Sizes, is the Table of that height; look down the columns of widths on the left till you find 37, the width of the size, against which is 4, the guiding number; opposite which number, in the column of half ell is 29; then turn to page 29 in the second part of this book, and opposite the guiding number 4, if your thickset is half ell broad, the quantity wanted will be seven yards, 2 nails. If your coat is not faced, you must deduct the quantity for coats not faced off the above guiding number. For instance, from a coat not faced of 5 feet 6 inches by the table for reducing the quantity will be found to be 12, and 4 is the guiding number; when I take the 4 from 12 there remains 8, by turning nine pages back to page 20 the same width, then I deduct 8 from 48, the lowest number, which will reduce the guiding number to 40 in page 20, opposite 40 will be found 6 yards, 2 quarters, 1 nail, which is 9 nails less than the original quantity.

N. B.

N. B. If the coats are to be made to button easy on the breast, you must allow one inch wider than the circumference of the body; and if to button to the bottom of the belly, and full plaited, you must allow 2 inches wider; for lappels you must also allow 2 inches wider.

And for surtout coats, every inch your buttons are to set back from the usual place, you must take one inch wider; and for double breasted waistcoats, one inch wider; and if faced with the same, and a stand-up collar, 2 inches wider.

A pair of trowsers take half as much more as breeches: for instance; If breeches take one yard; a pair of trowsers will take one yard and a half.

EXAMPLE FOR BREECHES.

To find the quantity of florentine silk half-ell-wide, to make a pair of breeches of 24 inches long in the side-seam, and 14 inches round the knee.

In page 62, is the Table for breeches; look down the first column on the left, which is the length of the breeches, till you come to 24; then take your finger along the line facing 24, till you come to 14, the width of the knee by inches; the next number 45, is the guiding Number; opposite which, in page 2, the width wanted will be found, if your florentine is half yard half inch, to be 2 yards, 1 quarter, 2 nails.

EXAMPLE FOR WAISTCOATS.

To find the quantity of kerseymere, which is 7-8ths wide, to make a waistcoat of 26 inches long in the back, and 45 inches round.

In page 61 is the Table for waistcoats without sleeves; look down the first column on the left, till you find 26 inches; the next column, which is the widths, is 35; but you want 45; at the top of the Table, you will find 10, which added to 35 makes the width wanted. Take your finger down the column from 10, till you come facing 26, your length; you will find your guiding number 44, in page 4; give the question in 7-8ths wide, which if your kerseymere is 3 quarters, 1 inch broad; the quantity wanted will be found to be 1 yard, 2 quarter, and 1 nail.

ERRATA.

In first Tables, page 3, for Sixth Size for Coats of Three Feet Eight, read Three Feet Ten.

Pages 21, 22, 23, 24, for Coats and Waistcoats, read Coats and Breeches.

In the Second Tables, page 6, middle column, for 0 yards, 0 quarters, 3 nails, read 0 yards, 3 quarters, 3 nails; for 1 yard, 3 quarters, 0 nails, read 1 yard, 0 quarters, 0 nails.

Page 41, middle column, for 2 yards, read 5 yards.

Page 47, last column after 11 yards, 0 quarter, 0 nails, read 11 yards, 0 quarters, 0 nails, instead of 12 yards, 0 quarters, 0 nails.
